Anna Brand
Assistant Professor in the Department of Planning and Urban Studies

“Ringing it Back: Exploring Post-Katrina New Orleans Neighborhoods and the Tensions between Democracy, Inequality, And Development”

Dr. Anna Livia Brand’s current research focuses on the intersection of race and urban space, looking specifically at historical black communities within the context of 21st century urban change. Her research explores the tensions between democracy, inequality, and development in cities. Dr. Brand is an Assistant Professor in PLUS. She received her PhD from MIT’s Department of Urban Studies and Planning and her MURP from UNO.

Email: abrand@uno.edu

More information about Dr. Brand can be found at http://works.bepress.com/annaliviabrand/