SAP Appeal Instructions

The University of New Orleans offers an appeal process to students so that they may explain and document extenuating circumstances beyond their control which resulted in resigning from school, withdrawing from classes, and/or receiving poor grades. Additionally, UNO recognizes students may have a prolonged academic career due to switching a major or transferring into UNO, ensuing a loss in prior attempted credit hours.

If you have extenuating circumstances that impacted your academic performance, you may submit the Spring 2022 SAP Appeal Form, and along with your signed statement and supporting documentation. If you are currently enrolled in classes at UNO for the fall term, your appeal will not be reviewed until fall grades are posted at the end of semester. The last day to submit an appeal for Spring 2022 is January 25, 2022.

Your statement must describe the circumstances that impacted your academic performance or prolonged your academic career. Please refer to the appeal form (bottom) for additional guidance to your statement. You must address your complete academic history, if you have multiple semesters of poor grades, withdrawals, or resignations, including all schools of attendance, regardless of how long ago you took the courses or if you received aid for the classes. Appeal decisions are final.

Late appeals will not be accepted after the published date. All appeals must be submitted with supporting documentation as outlined in these instructions. Appeals may be submitted to the Privateer Enrollment Center (PEC), located on the first floor of the Earl K. Long Library, or mailed-in. If you choose to mail-in your appeal, you should do so by registered mail. Appeals cannot be submitted via email or fax.

The mailing address is:

All items must be submitted together when submitting the appeal for consideration. If you have questions, please contact your financial aid counselor.
