

It's Carnival Time, Y'all!

Tips to letting the good times roll and keeping you safe too!

- ★ It's beginning to look a lot like Carnival in New Orleans. House floats are back, the Mardi Gras trees are in full bloom and we're on the streets watching (or dancing to) our favorite Krewe's!
- ★ Here are a few tips to keep you safe when heading out to the parades:
- ★ Grab a buddy or two when you head out. Make sure you have a game plan just in case you get separated. Take as little of your personal items as possible (your ID and phone, a small amount of cash). Before leaving the parade route, make sure everyone is accounted for.
- ★ Respect your neighbors. Crowds tend to grow as the floats begin to roll so remember everyone wants to have fun, catch beads, and listen to the marching bands. There's enough room for all of us!
- ★ Don't pee on the street (or any other place that isn't an actual restroom). Just don't.
- ★ If you drink, don't drive.

Have fun! Wear your best costume, strut your stuff, and keep all those beads.
