- Behavioral Studies
Students interested in service-oriented careers as counselors, social workers, teachers, and other helping professions.
- Business in Urban Society
Students with varied interest who may or may not have prior business course work. Students interested in the psycho/social aspects of business. Students who wish to pursue an MBA through an alternative pathway.
- Community and Leadership Development
NOPD, Firefighters, EMT, Sheriff Offices of Jefferson and Orleans, etc. Students studying for careers in non-profits. Student interested in community organizing.
- Cultural and Environmental Studies
Students interested in public careers associated with broad and/or specific interest in cultural and environmental concerns.
- Education in Urban Society
Students coming from 2-year programs whose credits are not always applicable to education degrees at UNO. Completion of this concentration allows students to view education holistically. While not providing students with certification to teach, students who complete the curriculum in the Education in Urban Society learning plan often continue their graduate studies in the Master of Arts in Teaching at UNO.
- Public Health
Students interested in public health issues including, but not limited to, community, family, and environmental issues. Students interested in non-profit careers. Students with two-year degrees in the allied health field.
